y Swearengen, of Niles, has had three husbands, she has been married five times. From two of her husbands she has been divorced, and in case remarried the man from whom she separated. She was a girl at 16, a grandmother at 30, and is now suing for a second divorce from Swearengen.

Two are said to be no less than 480 ways of wearing the felt campaign hat of the American soldier. The prevailing style is "straight fedora," in which crown of the hat is folded into ease lengthwise—that is, from front to back. The Fifth Cavalry at the Copperhead or Tetonia, in which the crown looks like a mountain summit, with four gulches and four ridges running down the sides. Nearly every infantry regiment has its own peculiar style.

A New York special to the St. Louis Republic says: There are $50,000 waiting for the Roosevelt adherents to take in wagers. The odds are turning against Roosevelt, for on Saturday Jas. Wakely, whose saloon is one of the sporting resorts of the city, bet $1000 to $900 with Mr. Desmond on the democratic candidate. Today a man named Leggett bet $1000 to $800 the same way. Jim Wakely has $6000 more to bet on Van Wyck at 10 to 9. Wakely and his friends have driven all the Roosevelt money to cover and elevated the quotations on Van Wyck's chances, but no takers. Wakely has bet, all told, about $18,000 thus far on Van Wyck. He is ready to bet more. The republicans seem to be skeptical of Roosevelt's chances, because they certainly have the money, and therefore must be afraid to back their choice.

The Rev. Lucien Lee Kinsolving, bishop-elect of the Protestant Episcopal Church in Brazil, is a native of Virginia, and has been a missionary in Brazil for some years. One of his brothers is bishop of Texas, and another is rector of a Brooklyn church. The Rev. J. B. Funston of Portsmouth, Va., as has already been stated, has not decided to accept his appointment as bishop of Boise. The Rev. Dr. Samuel C. Edsall of Chicago, the bishop-elect of North Dakota, is a well known Western High Churchman, and was a candidate for the bishopric of Iowa. The Rev. W. H. Moreland, bishopric elect of Sacramento, is a native of Charleston, S. C. He was educated at the University of the South, and was ordained a priest in 1885. He has been assistant rector of Christ Church, Hartford, Conn., and rector of a church at Neshua, N. H. He is now rector of St. Luke's Church, San Francisco.

"The Burmese," says a writer in the Pall Mall Magazine, "will sacrifice any prospect of money making to go to a feast. These are called pives, and often the entertainment is elaborate. I remember going to one in Upper Burma. There was a good deal of dancing, but neither the host nor his guests danced that would have been undignified. The dancers were paid, and they twirled lazily or jumped excitedly as occasion required. Most of the time, however, was spent in eating and smoking. Smoking is the only thing at which the Burmese are industrious. They start to smoking at the early age of 3, and they smoke themselves into the next world. Girls smoke quite as ardently as the men, and as the cigars are very big, many a pretty mouth is strained to accommodate a giant cheroot."

A Moral Conundrum.

The cigar stand in the corridor of the Jackson county court house, says the Kansas City Star, is now presenting, so to speak, a double bill, and to crowded houses. Added to the attraction of Jesse James Jr., who has never been convicted of crime, but who is spoken of openly by certain people in Jackson county as "the hero son of his father," is the presence of his uncle, Frank James, who formerly enjoyed an established reputation as a train robber, and, according to his own count, has at least been charged with seven different murders.

The two make great business for the cigar stand. The ladies swell the crowd and buy pipes and cigars as keepsakes. The skins have been for a time darkened by blood or war, but as we were enabled to take up the sword in the cause of humanity, we were permitted to rejoice that the conflict has been of brief duration and the losses we have had to mourn, though great and important, have been so few considering the great results accomplished as to inspire us with gratitude and praise to the Lord of hosts. We may laud and magnify His holy name that the cessation of it still came so soon as to spare both sides the countless sorrows and disasters that attend protracted war.

I do, therefore, invite all my fellow citizens, those at home as well as those who may be at sea or sojourning in foreign lands, to set apart and observe Tuesday, the 24th day of November, as a day of national thanksgiving, to come together in their several places of worship for a service of general thanks to Almighty God for all the blessings of the year, and the mildness of the summer and the fullness of the soul for the welfare and prosperity of the people, for the elevation and valor of our soldiers; for the glory of our country and the hope of a righteous peace, and to pray that the divine guidance which has brought us hitherto to safety hereafter may graciously be continued.

It can not be questioned, however, that this crime of train robbery is considered in Jackson county the most daring, chivalrous and attractive of all offenses against the law, and a halo rests upon the brow of the train robber that does not light up the head of any other criminal. It is this offender that distinguished lawyer hasten to defend free of charge; that newspapers hail as a brave knight and a dashing hero, and that admiring crowds surround whenever he is exposed to the public gaze. But why this is so is a question that has so far avoided elucidation.

Pullman Interests Out.
The stockholders of the Kansas City, Pittsburg & Gulf railroad held their annual meeting at the general offices of the company in this city at noon today and elected a new board of directors. Norman B. Ream and Frank O. Lowden of Chicago were dropped from the directory. They represented the interests of the late George M. Pullman, the Pullman palace car magnate in Kansas City, Pittsburg & Gulf securities. Mr. Pullman was a close friend of A. E. Stilwell, president of the Kansas City, Pittsburg and Gulf, and bought a large amount of bonds in the company, but after his death the administrators of the estate disposed of his interests.

Mr. Ream and Mr. Lowden were succeeded today on the board of directors by Robert Gillham and C. A. Bradley. The board of directors in session this afternoon for the purpose of electing officers. It was announced that no change would be made from the present list of officers except the selection of an additional vice-president. J. T. Netherton will be given this place. Many of the eastern stockholders of the Pittsburg & Gulf attended the meeting.

The board of directors of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Trust company at its meeting yesterday afternoon re-elected the officers who served last year—Kansas City Star.

Thanksgiving Proclamation.

Washington, Oct. 28.—The president, after the cabin meeting today, issued the following Thanksgiving proclamation:

By the President of the United States.—A Proclamation. The approaching November brings to mind the customs of our ancestors, handed down to us, rooted in our most sacred traditions, of giving thanks to Almighty God for all the blessings he has vouchsafed to us during the past year. Few years in our history have afforded such cause for thanksgiving. We have been blessed with abundant harvests, our trade and commerce have been wonderfully increased, our public credit has been improved and strengthened, all sections of our country have been brought together and knit into closer bonds of national purpose and unity.

The undisguised admiration of the spectators shows the bold that train robbing has upon many Jackson county hearts. The preference, if it may be so called, which people manifest for some forms of crime over others is a curious study. The chicken thief is an object of universal reprobation and contempt. The hog thief is viewed with less derision, while the horse thief comes almost with the halo of charitable regard. Most popular, however, of the thief fraternity, is the highwayman in his different forms. The masked robber who waits in a dark place and at the muzzle of a revolver compels a paralytic old man, blind in one eye and deaf in both ears, to give up his old patient lever silver watch, stands much higher in the estimation of the public than the pickpocket who abstracts the same time piece from an unsuspecting pocket, although as much courage is displayed by the thief in the one case as in the other.

It can not be questioned, however, that this crime of train robbery is considered in Jackson county the most daring, chivalrous and attractive of all offenses against the law, and a halo rests upon the brow of the train robber that does not light up the head of any other criminal. It is this offender that distinguished lawyer hasten to defend free of charge; that newspapers hail as a brave knight and a dashing hero, and that admiring crowds surround whenever he is exposed to the public gaze. But why this is so is a question that has so far avoided elucidation.

I am considered one of the best in this country and am therefore much better prepared to fit you in the latest and most elegant clothing than ever before.

I respectfully request my old customers and all others who are engaged in tailoring to call on me for fitting up older clothes.
